Marystown, NL (Rotational)
Reference #NH-18272

With headquarters in Bergen, Norway, Grieg Seafood is one of the world's leading salmon aquaculture enterprises, with operations spanning across Norway and Canada, including the scenic, rural areas of Newfoundland and Labrador.

As a division of Grieg Seafood, Grieg Seafood Newfoundland (GSN) is an established and growing aquaculture operation headquartered in Marystown, NL in the heart of the Burin Peninsula with multiple sites throughout the province. With over 100 talented employees, they're not just about aquaculture, they're cultivating a brighter future for the local communities and the environment.

To support this continued growth, we are seeking Aquaculture Technicians to join their and contribute to the Rushoon and Merasheen Greig sites, on a rotational schedule. In this vital role, you will be responsible for general farm operations and husbandry of fish stocks. You'll be an integral part of a dedicated team, driving operational efficiency and ensuring the health and well-being of their fish stocks. Every day presents an opportunity to effect meaningful change in their operations.

What You Will Do:

- Perform general farm operations, including anchor line management, biosecurity procedures, and ensuring adherence to biosecurity product usage protocols.
- Operate and maintain capstans, cranes, and vessels to support daily farm activities.
- Implement and respond to fish escape prevention and emergency escape response protocols, safeguarding the integrity of fish stocks.
- Oversee feed delivery, storage, and management practices.
- Conduct regular weight sampling and assist with large vessel docking operations to support fish health monitoring and operational logistics.
- Perform routine system and cage inspections to identify and address maintenance needs, ensuring the structural integrity of the farm's infrastructure.
- Monitor plankton levels and execute response plans to mitigate potential impacts on fish health and farm operations.
- Operate VHF radios and adhere to communication procedures to maintain clear and effective communication within the team.
- Collect environmental data to support ongoing monitoring and management of farm conditions.

What You Will Bring:

- Diploma or Degree in Aquaculture, Aquatic Resources or Fisheries Resources Management is preferred.
- Comprehensive understanding of salmon operations and biosecurity protocols.
- A proactive, problem-solving attitude.
- Excellent communication skills and interpersonal skills.
- Proficiency in Microsoft applications (FishTalk experience an asset).
- A commitment to teamwork in a collaborative environment.

Work Environment:

- Outdoor setting, immersed in the natural beauty of Newfoundland and Labrador.
- An active role, combining various physical activities including kneeling, bending and lifting.
- A unique work schedule offering a balance between work and personal time: Seven days on, followed by seven days off. 80 hours bi-weekly.

What They Offer:

- A highly competitive salary, reflecting your experience and potential for growth.
- Comprehensive health and retirement benefits.
- A rotational schedule.
- The chance to be part of a company that's not just growing but also deeply committed to sustainability and making a positive impact on the community.
- An opportunity to grow with a company committed to sustainability and community engagement.

At Grieg Seafood Newfoundland, they're more than a company, they're a community!
